Reasons why

MANSION POLISH

IS THE IDEAL POLISH FOR HOSPITAL FLOORS . . . . . .

- EASE IN USE. The consistency of Mansion Polish is adjusted to make it easy to apply. Its immediate response to the action of the polisher ensures that a brilliant finish is obtained with the minimum of rubbing.
- ECONOMY. Owing to the high grade waxes used in its manufacture, only the thinnest film of "Mansion" is required to obtain a brilliant and lasting finish. A considerable saving in the amount of polish required to polish a floor is thereby effected.
- CLEANLINESS. Mansion Polish thoroughly cleans all wood surfaces.
- MAINTAINING APPEARANCE. The most attractive floors are those which are polished with a good wax polish. The regular use of "Mansion" ensures the highest degree of finish to Stained or Parquet Floors and Linoleum.

If it's Hospital Equipment— it should be ATEC

Solid Stainless Steel

Nothing has been left unconsidered in the manufacture of ATEC Hospital Equipment in Firth "Staybrite" Steel. Comfort in use, hygiene, durability —all of the properties essential to hospital equipment have been incorporated. Complete sterility is ensured by the hard mirror finish and the open half roll edge. Lightness in weight permits easy handling, and wherever possible the sides of the vessels have been slightly tapered to enable easy stacking in the minimum of space.

CATERING EQUIPMENT

Sink and Draining Board Units in Solid Stainless Steel can be supplied either in standard sizes or specially designed for industrial purposes. They are labour-saving, truly hygienic and cut crockery breakages to the minimum. Also included in the "Atec" range is a great variety of kitchen and table utensils—bowls, dishes, trays, etc. in solid stainless steel.

Have You Considered the Merits of SANTRON the New Germicide ?..

Gynæcology and Midwifery

Santron contains a higher percentage of pure potash castor oil soap, and differs from most germicides in that an additional soap solution is not required. It is clean and pleasant to use. When necessary may be applied in undiluted form.

For Hospitals

The essential oils do not produce any overpowering odour. The standard Rideal Walker Test proves the strength on the Typhoid Baccillus to be five times stronger than pure Phenol. Even under the most unfavourable conditions Medical research workers in a London Teaching Hospital have shown that Santron exerts its antiseptic power in a high degree. It is available to Hospitals and Public Institutions in bulk quantities at an amazingly low price.

In General Practice

For cleansing cuts and wounds, sterilization of hands and instruments, Santron is efficient and convenient. Non-poisonous, non-corrosive and harmless to linen or delicate materials.

In the Home

Santron is available to the public through all chemists, and may be indicated for all purposes of personal hygiene, including gargling, as a deodorant, and general disinfecting of sick rooms, and treatment of clothes.

Santron is manufactured solely by Rendells, a name known to the Medical Profession throughout the world for over 50 years. Like all other Rendell Products, it is made under the same scrupulous conditions and control of an independent Medical Board.

Santron is being used by many General and Women's Hospitals, Public Institutions and Factories throughout the Country.

Full Medical literature and samples supplied on application.

FOR THE TREATMENT OF HERNIA . . .

The "HECSON" REGD.
Super Elastic Truss

Strap is fixed to Pad at A. Therefore greater pressure is exerted at B, when the strap is pulled tightly.

PRICE :
Single £2 12s. 6d. Double £3 13s. 6d.

Further particulars on request from the manufacturers.

Where treatment of Hernia by surgical methods is undesirable for any reasons, the HECSON super elastic truss can be confidently recommended. The Special Feature of the HECSON Truss is that the perineal or under strap is attached to the top of the pad, instead of the lower margin as in the ordinary elastic or old spring truss. Thus it becomes part of the leverage mechanism for increasing the pressure of the pad at its base. In this way the HECSON truss can also be used to control a semi-scrotal hernia, not controlled by an ordinary elastic truss. Made of the finest quality elastic, the HECSON is comfortable and light, and yet gives maximum pressure on the external hernial ring.

Southalls SOUTHALAMIDE (Patented) GAUZE

Whenever a dry dressing is desirable—in cases of cuts and lacerations, after suturing, when stitches will not hold if sepsis occurs—Southalamide Patented Gauze is the ideal dressing. Already, in the comparatively short time since its introduction, it has gained a reputation for reliability, and is becoming increasingly recognised for its specialised contribution to medicine and surgery.

Impregnated with approx. 30% Sulphanilamide.

Ensures slow absorption and prevents shedding of medication.

Can be sterilised repeatedly without affecting the strength of the gauze or the medicament.

Supplied in 1-yd., 3-yd., and 6-yd. rolls, also Ribbon Gauze, ½", 1" and 2" x 6-yd. rolls. Also available as adhesive strip dressing 1 yd. x 1½" or 2½".

Southalamide Gauze and Ribbon Gauze are manufactured by Southalls (Birmingham) Ltd. in conjunction with A. de St. Dalmas & Co. Ltd., Leicester.

Southalls PERFECT STERILIZATION

Southalls Sterilized Surgical Dressings are sterilized by moist heat at about 125°C. Not only is this more effective than the common use of dry heat; it also enables wrappings to be sealed without the danger of contamination by air or hands after sterilization. By the Southalls Automatic Self-Sealing Device the dressing remains open during the sterilizing process, and the packet is automatically sealed when sterilization is complete.

FINANCIAL REVIEW xlvii

FOREWORD

By the Rt. Hon. ANEURIN BEVAN, M.P., Minister of Health

TO all of us who are concerned with the hospital service the Hospitals Year-Book has been, for more than fifteen years, of the greatest assistance. Year by year since its inception in 1931 its usefulness has increased, and has been increasingly appreciated, until we have come to regard it as an institution in the hospital world. It has been invaluable as a directory, as a source of comparative statistics, and as a handbook of advice on hospital problems.

As the successor to the Burdett's Hospitals and Charities the Year-Book naturally inherited a primary concern with the voluntary hospitals; but it has found a place also for information about the local authority hospitals which have been their partners in public service. In this recognition of the two elements constituting a single whole the Year-Book has been a pointer towards the new unified hospital service which will come into being under the National Health Service Act.

Unification must inevitably bring changes; the two elements will be fused into one. But there is no sudden break with the past involved—it is an evolutionary process by which we may hope to transmit the best traditions of both elements to the new service. The voluntary hospital of the past may disappear, but the voluntary spirit must live on. The Regional Boards, Management Committees and Boards of Governors of teaching hospitals are, or are to be, all of them voluntary bodies, giving greater scope than before for this form of service to the community, and having the advantage of the accumulated experience of those who have carried on the work until now. A new freedom will emerge with the end of the hospitals' dependence on voluntary financial support. By planning the service over wide areas a new impetus will be given towards making the best use possible of the available resources in staff and accommodation, and a new opportunity will arise for every hospital in the country to play a full and fruitful part as colleagues in a common enterprise.

Collaboration in care of the sick, efficiency in administration, progress in standards of service—these are the objects which the Hospitals Year-Book has existed to further, and they must be the hallmarks of the future we are beginning to build. The National Health Service Act has provided a skeleton. It will be our task as the years go by to clothe it with the living flesh of a vital and growing service which remains mindful of the values of the past but presses on to the greater things that lie ahead.

October 1947

MESSAGES TO THE EDITOR

From THE BRITISH MEDICAL ASSOCIATION.

It is with real pleasure that I write to express, on behalf of the British Medical Association, warm appreciation of the valuable service rendered for many years by the Central Bureau of Hospital Information through the annual publication of the Hospitals Year-Book. This admirable work—surely a model of completeness and arrangement—has been in frequent use in the offices of this Association, and to those who have devoted so much care and skill to its compilation we, in common with many others, have much cause for gratitude.

My admiration would be accompanied at the present time by some degree of apprehension did I not feel certain that this indispensable book, even if its continued production under existing arrangements is in doubt, will not be allowed to pass out of existence. How its future publication in accordance with the high standards maintained in the past may best be secured is no doubt a matter requiring careful thought, but, however views may differ regarding some projected breaks with tradition in the hospital world, there can be only one opinion about the Year-Book—it must go on. May it long enjoy in the years to come the success which the distinguished work of its able editors has achieved for it hitherto.

Charles Hill,
Secretary.

From THE INSTITUTE OF HOSPITAL ADMINISTRATORS.

As President of the Institute of Hospital Administrators the opportunity afforded to me of paying tribute to the Hospitals Year-Book and the service it has performed over the past sixteen years gives me especial pleasure, for publication of the Year-Book has been one of the major activities of the Central Bureau of Hospital Information upon whose committee of management my Institute was long represented.

No other work has attempted to provide the range of statistical and other information concerning the hospital services of this country which the Year-Book has year by year presented, and it has been a standard work of reference, not only valuable to those concerned with voluntary hospital administration, but also to those in other sections of the hospital service

The publication of such a work has, I know, been no easy task, and if it should prove that this edition of the Year-Book is the last to be published under its present auspices then those responsible for its successor—such as clearly there must be—will be much indebted to the pioneer work of the successive editors.

Chas. G. Rolliston,
President.

From THE INSTITUTE OF ALMONERS.

I believe that the Hospitals Year-Book will be shortly going to Press, and with the coming changes in health legislation I am wondering whether there is any suggestion that this edition might be the last. If this should be the case I very much hope some way will be found of perpetuating what has always been one of the tangible evidences of the excellent work done by the British Hospitals Association. Almoners throughout the country have found the Year-Book of great practical value, and I know that they, as well as many other groups of hospital workers, would regret it were it to be discontinued. We appreciate that the form might need to be different in the future, but we trust that it may be possible for all the information it contains to be still so conveniently available to all who need it.

Marjorie Steel,
Secretary.

From THE LONDON COUNTY COUNCIL.

Since its first appearance in 1931, the Hospitals Year-Book has provided comprehensive statistics relating to the work of hospitals, both municipal and voluntary, including mental hospitals, and has aimed at giving year by year an objective and impartial survey of the trend of events. Articles on special subjects of topical interest have enhanced its value, and it has come to be regarded as the standard work of reference in its field.

Members and officers of the London County Council have always found it most useful and, if, as seems likely, this edition is to be the last in its present form, I very much hope that the Hospitals Year-Book will have a successor which will be of equal value to those interested in hospital development and statistics.

I. J. HAYWARD,
Leader of the London County Council.

From THE MENTAL HOSPITALS ASSOCIATION.

The Mental Hospitals Association has heard, with considerable regret, that the bringing into force of the National Health Service Act may result in the disappearance of the Hospitals Year-Book. The Association appreciates how helpful this annual publication has been to members of governing bodies and, in particular, their officers, and its withdrawal from publication will be a very distinct loss. The Association would like to place on record its gratitude to those who, in the past, have been responsible for producing such a valuable work of reference.

W. J. GARNETT,
Chairman.

From THE NUFFIELD PROVINCIAL HOSPITALS TRUST.

To be asked to write a message on the occasion of what may prove to be the last issue of the Hospitals Year-Book is an honour for which we are grateful to the British Hospitals Association, but an honour of a melancholy kind. It will be strange if the tall blue-and-gold spine of the Hospitals Year-Book no longer takes its place on the bookshelf beside the bulkier form of the deep blue Oxford Dictionary, the scarlet Who's Who and the crimson and green Whittaker; the blank space may soon be filled but the gap will remain in the mind's eye. How that gap will eventually be closed we cannot prophesy. It is a train of thought which, far from resolving itself, leads from the contemplation of reference books to the wider issue of how, in the days to come, those who are concerned, whether officially or non-officially, with the health of the nation may obtain a constant flow of accurate, up-to-date, comprehensive, objectively gathered and presented information. Yet such information is essential if the national health service is to be made as good as it should be.

The Nuffield Provincial Hospitals Trust has always believed that those voluntary bodies who, hitherto, have played a useful part in the country's medical and hospital services, can still contribute largely from their store of knowledge and experience towards the development of the national health service. The present occasion prompts the thought that, among the useful contributions to be made by these outside bodies may be the supply of information of many kinds presented in many forms—here a full-scale survey, there a digest of scattered facts, here a work of reference and there a report of an experimental enquiry. And so, although with changing circumstances we may see the disappearance of one well-established work of reference, we have little doubt of the continued and indeed increasing need for the kind of skill, care and patience which lie behind the production of well-documented information.

W. M. GOODENOUGH,
Chairman.

From THE ROYAL COLLEGE OF MIDWIVES.

The Royal College of Midwives has a long and interesting history. It was founded in 1881 to improve the education and raise the status of midwives and to be a centre of information for the public.

The Royal College is approved by the Central Midwives Board as a lecture centre for midwife teacher students and pupil midwives and much post-graduate work is undertaken. In all these activities the Royal College has found the very comprehensive information given each year in the Hospitals Year-Book of inestimable value. We welcome this opportunity of paying a tribute all those who have contributed to the success of this standard work of reference. It will be a great loss to us if the Hospitals Year-Book ceases to be published, and the Royal College hopes steps will be taken to ensure that this does not occur.

F. R. Mitchell,
General Secretary.

From THE ROYAL COLLEGE OF NURSING.

I have heard with considerable regret that there is a possibility that this may be the last edition of the Hospitals Year-Book, and I would like to express the appreciation of the Royal College of Nursing for the invaluable help received through its pages. Since its publication in 1931 its usefulness has increased each year, and it has come to be regarded as an almost indispensable adjunct to every department here and to members and branches throughout the country. Space does not permit of my enumerating the many occasions where its usefulness has been proved, and the cessation of its publication will, I feel sure, be received with very sincere regret by those organisations who have relied on and benefited from the very comprehensive information on all things relating to hospitals which it contains. I very much hope, therefore, that notwithstanding certain predictions its publication may be continued.

Frances G. Goodall,
General Secretary.

From THE TRADES UNION CONGRESS.

The introduction next year of the National Health Service will mark the beginning of a new stage in the nation's fight against ill-health. The Trades Union Congress, with an affiliated membership of over 7½-millions, welcomes this great measure for co-ordinating and expanding the country's health services, and will continue its whole-hearted efforts to achieve a really worth while service.

Re-organisation of the existing hospital services will bring about far reaching changes. Those who have worked to build up these services, whether in the municipal or voluntary field, have accomplished much. On the other hand, we believe that their efforts have been restricted and handicapped by the conditions under which they have had to work. With the creation of a co-ordinated comprehensive hospital system, organised on an equal basis for the community as a whole, we believe that they will find greatly increased scope in their work for the alleviation and prevention of sickness.

The present edition of the Hospitals Year-Book will see the inauguration of the new service next year. We are very glad to have this opportunity of expressing our appreciation to the compilers for providing a reference book which has been of much use to those interested in hospital matters.

Vincent Tewson,
General Secretary, The Trades Union Congress.

THE HOSPITALS YEAR-BOOK

THE HOSPITALS YEAR-BOOK was established in 1931 by the Joint Council of the Order of St. John and the British Red Cross Society as one of the activities of the Central Bureau of Hospital Information, which the Joint Council created at the same time. Since 1942 it has been published under the auspices of the British Hospitals Association, to which the Bureau was then transferred by long standing agreement with the Joint Council.

From its inception, the object of the Year-Book has been to present an annual record of the hospitals of Great Britain. It has sought to provide a comprehensive directory of hospitals; information and comparative statistics, particularly those relating to voluntary hospitals; memoranda on special aspects of hospital work, and an annual review of the work of the hospitals.

Great changes now lie ahead in the hospital world arising from the National Health Service Acts. As a result, the future of the Hospitals Year-Book may also be affected; for it is certain that the British Hospitals Association—under whose auspices and at whose expense the Year-Book is now produced by the Central Bureau of Hospital Information—can no longer exercise its representative function on behalf of the voluntary hospitals when these hospitals lose their voluntary status and are transferred to the Minister of Health. On the other hand, the Hospitals Year-Book has served a many sided purpose and formed the standard work of reference in its own field.

It is as yet too early to assess how far the statistical review of the future hospital services may be undertaken centrally by the Ministry of Health, or even regionally by the authorities established under the Acts; but no doubt some of the present functions of the Year-Book will fall to be dealt with by official sources. Nevertheless important bodies, representing a wide section of those inevitably concerned with the future hospital services, categorically state that the loss of the Hospitals Year-Book would be a matter not only for regret but concern. The messages received from these bodies express the hope that, notwithstanding changed conditions, the Hospitals Year-Book, itself changed as may be necessary in scope and content, will continue.

In these circumstances, the future and form of the Hospitals Year-Book warrant careful consideration and consultation by all who feel the continuing need to provide a forum for the collection and dissemination of facts and views on hospital affairs; and so to promote what the Minister has written in his gracious Foreword to this edition—" Collaboration in care of the sick, efficiency in administration, progress in standards of service—these are the objects which the Hospitals Year-Book has existed to further, and they must be the hallmarks of the future we are beginning to build."

THE LATE SIR ARTHUR STANLEY, G.C.V.O., G.B.E., C.B.

ON the point of going to press we have to record with deepest regret the death of Sir Arthur Stanley, President of the British Hospitals Association from 1920 to the date of his death on the 4th November, 1947.

His work for his less fortunate fellows, and particularly for the sick, was manifested in many ways and by the many offices he held—notably as Treasurer of St. Thomas's Hospital and as Chairman of the British Red Cross Society.

In the field of the voluntary hospitals he was a legendary figure. His name became synonymous with that of the British Hospitals Association, of which he was appointed President in 1920. Both the Association and the Central Bureau of Hospital Information owe much to his foresight and his endeavour. It was only his ill-health and the coming of the war, with all its attendant difficulties, that in recent years deprived the voluntary hospitals of the benefit of that close personal activity in all their affairs which he had so vigorously maintained for twenty years. His loss will be deeply mourned.

THE ADMINISTRATION OF THE NATIONAL HOSPITAL SERVICE

By THE EDITOR

Much has been heard of the benefits promised to the patient under the future National Health Service, but little of the administration of the hospital part of that service. By common consent the Acts laid down only the broad outline of the scheme and the broad principles of its organisation. The Acts, however, with a frequency unparalleled in former legislation, relegate every aspect of administration to be dealt with by future Regulations and Orders. Yet it is the administration which will determine whether the new Service be good, bad or indifferent.

The subject covers a very wide field, and the general public will be unaware of its magnitude and complexity. It is therefore opportune to examine the administration—in the widest sense of that rather overworked word—of the future hospital services, and in particular at central, regional and local hospital level; in relation to staff and their work and conditions of service; in relation to finance; and in relation to the cumulative effect of all this upon the patient.

Though the English Act was passed in 1946 and the expected "appointed day" is now but nine months away, so far only the areas of the Regions and the membership of the Regional Hospital Boards have been settled; and the regulations governing the superannuation of staff, drawn up after prolonged consultation, have now been approved by Parliament and well received. These are, however, only preliminary steps, and in themselves provide no guide as to how the administration in all its spheres is to be developed.

AT THE CENTRE

Much care has been taken by the Government to insist that the hospital service will not be administered centrally from Whitehall and that the aim will be, so far as possible, to decentralise administration right down to the level of the local hospital—or group of hospitals. Nevertheless, the need for some measure of central direction and guidance is generally recognised, and the Acts provide that the Minister of Health and the Secretary of State for Scotland * are each to be advised by a Central Health Services Council, and by Standing Advisory Committees on some special aspects of the service. Yet in England the Regional Boards are already beginning their work, although the Central Council has still to be appointed. It would seem that the appointment of the Council and the Standing Advisory Committees becomes a matter of urgency if such central guidance as is essential to a national service is to be given from the beginning when policy is in process of formulation.

AT REGIONAL LEVEL

The Regional Hospital Boards are now engaged in selecting their principal officers. They have an enormous task ahead albeit their duties are essentially those of planning and supervising, rather than administering, the services in their Regions. Each Board—as was to be expected—comprises representation drawn from a wide field. Each Chairman will no doubt be finding a considerable variety of opinion among the members of his Board; but those views have to be harmonised into a constructive policy. Obviously the Boards will need time to consolidate their views and to determine their more important or immediate problems. It may even be that they will need to be firm in rejecting any attempt to impose upon them duties more appropriate to hospital administration at local level than to regional planning.

Grouping of Hospitals by Regional Boards

Their first and most important duty under the Act is to group the hospitals within their Region and to appoint Management Committees for each group of hospitals—in some cases for an individual hospital. From the near approach of the "appointed day," it is obvious that the Boards must soon consider these groupings, if indeed they have not already begun to do so. But on what principles are they to work? And, in so far as these may prove conflicting, in what order are they to be placed? Some may wish to put first the distribution of consultants: others may be preoccupied with the grouping of hospitals for the purposes of nurse-training. Others will wish to endow each group with its own entity in order to attract continuance of local interest and voluntary service. Some will put first functional grouping so as to provide within one group all, other than ultra-specialist, services; yet others, particularly in Scotland and parts of England and

* As arrangements in England and Wales are generally more advanced, due to the earlier passage of the English Act, the illustrations throughout are confined to England as a matter of convenience, and also on account of certain differences between the English and Scottish Acts. At the time of going to Press the Northern Ireland Health Bill has only recently been introduced.

Wales, will regard geographical considerations as the dominant factor.

The Regional Hospitals Board should, through the Minister, have the benefit of advice from the Central Council in a primary duty of such importance; and preferably that advice should be made available in a form accessible to the public in order that it may be tested, and, if necessary modified by informed comment.

Appointment of Management Committees by Regional Boards

Following the grouping of the hospitals, the next statutory duty of the Regional Hospital Boards will be the appointment of Management Committees. The composition of these Committees, as laid down in the Schedules to the Act, is so vague as to provide no effective index. Is each Regional Board to be a law unto itself in deciding what are to be the considerations that will dominate the appointment of the new Management Committees? Will the membership of the Committees comprise a majority of persons already experienced in hospital management (as is proposed in the Northern Ireland Health Bill), or is the introduction of new blood to reduce existing experience to a minimum? What is to be the balance between interested and disinterested parties?

Questions such as these, affecting the appointment of the Hospital Management Committees, are important and much care needs to be exercised in their elucidation.

AT THE LEVEL OF THE LOCAL HOSPITAL

The administration of the individual hospital—or of a group of hospitals—under its Management Committee is perhaps the most important of all the aspects of administration; for upon the local administration will depend the efficiency of the hospital, and it is only the hospital which has direct contact with the patient.

From the salaries and conditions—centrally determined—governing the appointment of the principal Regional officers, it has evidently been assumed that the sphere of the Regional Board's administration in planning its services is regarded as primarily medical in character. Whether or not this hypothesis is true—and it may be disputed on many grounds—it is to be hoped that, at the level of the local hospital, administration will be effectively delegated to a Management Committee predominantly lay in character and working through a chief executive officer or administrator trained and experienced in hospital administration.

But within this framework there is room for much latitude. For example, the local administration of a group of hospitals could be centred in its Management Committee with some delegation of responsibility for day-to-day supervision to a House Committee for each hospital within the group. Under such a plan a group of hospitals would be administered by one highly experienced hospital administrator who would be Secretary to the Management Committee; he would be aided by an assistant secretary at each hospital within the group.

A much more satisfactory alternative could provide for the Management Committee to be the body controlling policy and co-ordinating the interworking of the hospitals within the group, but with an effective devolution of responsibility to the House Committee for the management of the individual hospital. In this case, each of these hospitals would have its own House Committee and its own administrator, but an effective "tie-up" might be obtained by the Secretary of each hospital also holding some appointment such as assistant secretary to the Management Committee. But these alternatives obviously are not an exhaustive list of possible methods.

Though to the uninformed in hospital affairs these may seem to be involved matters of detail, they are important problems, and upon their right solution will depend the efficiency of the individual hospital, and of the group, and so ultimately the efficiency of the whole service.

The existence of problems of this order raises the question as to the nature of the guidance to be given—whether by Regulations (which are laid by the Minister before Parliament) or by Orders (which do not require any such sanction)—and as to whether the Regional Boards and the Management Committees when appointed, should have facilities for joint discussion among themselves.

The Public and its Local Hospital

It has officially been made clear that continuance of personal interest in the hospitals is vital to the interests of the patient and that continuance of personal support for special objects such as amenities for the patient not otherwise provided and for many other purposes, including medical research, is highly desirable. These activities, if they are to be encouraged as they should be, must by good administration be presented to the public in such ways as will assure response. It follows that the Management Committees must be so composed as to command local approval and support; that reports of hospitals' activities must not be confined to official reports at central, or even regional, level; and that Management Committees must be able to keep in close contact with their public by all possible methods, including the issue of publications and the encouragement of organisations such as the former Linen Guilds or other guilds of service, which have in the past rendered such valuable service to the patients.

THE DANGERS OF STANDARDISATION

In a nationally organised hospital service, thoughtful people will anticipate economy and enhanced efficiency of administration from such activities as central buying of supplies and standardisation of equipment. But those connected with hospitals know that there is more to be lost than gained by indiscriminate or excessive indulgence in these methods. It is true that central buying can and should be used in some fields, but these are restricted. Again, the production of standards for hospital equipment is at present engaging the attention of an extremely representative committee under the auspices of the British Standards Institution; but the creation of standards of quality, alternative design or manufacture must not be confused with standardisation. Some degree of standardisation has obvious merit but over-standardisation of hospital equipment (whether in the ward, the special department or the laboratory) or the too ready use of "reference lists of stock requirements," could as effectively stultify improvement as over-centralisation of purchasing and supply. The national hospital service must be jeopardised by neither.

STAFFING ADMINISTRATION

There are many aspects of administration which directly relate to problems of staffing and to the interests of the staff themselves.

Medical Staff

A regionally co-ordinated service should provide a better distribution of consultants and specialists to meet the needs of patients. But from the viewpoint of administration, the position of the doctor has still to be clarified in relation to the Management Committee of the particular hospital (or hospitals) which he serves; for technically he is to be the employee of a Regional Board which may cover several counties. Also in the appointment of medical staff to hospitals, the weight properly attached to academic qualification must not exclude those considerations which have regard to the medical staff of any hospital as forming a team needing its own harmony.

The introduction of national terms of service and rates of remuneration could have serious repercussions, both on staffing and on expenditure, unless fairly wide ranges are adopted and discretion, in which the local Management Committees should have some say, can be exercised with reasonable freedom.

It is of importance to good administration that there should be in each hospital a Medical Committee in close contact with the House or Management Committee; and the internal administration of the hospital must be such as to ensure professional freedom to the members of the medical staff in the treatment of their patients and in the prosecution of individual research.

Nursing Staff

The importance of hospital nurses needs no emphasis, for without them neither doctors nor beds are of use. And yet dangers are apparent if the administration of the nursing services were to develop on certain lines. For example, the Report of the Working Party on the Recruitment of Training of Nurses * states that the Nursing Divisions of the Ministry of Health "will need to be strengthened so as to administer † effectively the nursing services of the community."

It may be easy to organise on paper a central (or a regional) nursing service. Due weight must, however, be given to the ties of intimacy that exist between a nurse and her hospital. The consensus of informed and professional opinion is that if the nurse came to be regarded as a regional commodity, to be moved from one hospital to another as occasion required, nothing would serve as a greater deterrent to recruitment or the establishment of a contented nursing service within the hospitals.

Domestic Staff

Administration, particularly in the form of improved methods of personnel management, is nowhere more important than in this sphere.

Administrative Staff

Efficient administration demands efficient administrators. There is in some quarters a tendency to regard hospital administration as not particularly different from any form of general administration, or, alternatively, to regard the hospital administrator as a "business manager." Neither conception could be farther from the truth. It is true that the administrator must be a man of business, but, unless he is also a man of parts, he will prove no administrator. The rates of remuneration of the Regional Board officers are such as to cause grave anxiety as to whether both in status and remuneration the terms of service for hospital administrators will be such as to attract men of the necessary calibre.

* Published by H.M. Stationery Office, 1947. † Our Italics (Ed.).

Wages and Conditions of Service

The methods by which either the existing wage committees are to be remodelled, or new machinery of negotiation is to be created, form another aspect of administration of great importance to the employing authorities and to the staff, and therefore to the staffing of the hospitals.

The fixation of rates of pay for each category of staff, and the relating of those rates to others covering the whole gamut of hospital staffs, call for a very finely adjusted piece of administrative mechanism; and the difficulties are not lessened by some ambiguity in the position of the Minister, who, under the Act, is explicitly not the employer, but who nevertheless has the ultimate responsibility to the Treasury for expenditure on the Health Services.

Again, on the staffs' side, the position is complicated by the number of bodies claiming to represent various sections of the staff.

THE ADMINISTRATION OF FINANCE

In the National Health Service Act there is, as it were, a postscript which makes it clear that the establishment, development and improvement of the new service will ultimately depend on Treasury approval of the expenditure to be incurred. Last, but by no means least, therefore, finance must be included in this review.

Finance must inevitably exert an overriding influence on the National Health Service. In the immediate future, for economic reasons, this influence is more likely to be cramping than expansive; for example the Minister of Economic Affairs has recently said that the national programme of capital expenditure, which would include hospital building, must be drastically cut. Establishment of a high level of administration in the service and in the individual hospital becomes all the more important if the best possible use is to be made of existing facilities which are universally admitted to be inadequate to demand.

Again, financial administration within the service adds its own quota to the problems requiring determination. For example, the necessary evolution of a standard form of accounts for all hospitals is obviously advantageous for the purposes of comparative statistics, for simplicity in accountancy and to facilitate budgeting (which, however, it is important to note is to be done in terms of global figures) at all levels within the service.

Financial administration is in its outlook of necessity inclined to detail. Nevertheless financial administration will yield its own crop of questions and difficulties, some of which in their determination will affect more than a mere consideration of finance and will invoke questions of general and, it may even be, major policy. The greatest care will need to be taken, even in this early stage, that in the matter of the health and hospital services finance does not dictate policy but that policy shall within reason dictate finance.

CONCLUSION

Everybody knows that the old order is changing. It is questionable whether any one person realises the number and magnitude of the questions, problems and difficulties which arise from the transition to a new order, some of which press urgently for decision. Others, though they may wait for a time, will in their turn demand attention. The Regional Hospital Boards in particular (since they were the first instruments to be appointed under the Act) and later the other bodies yet to be appointed, must not at the onset become enmeshed in a welter of business in which it will be increasingly difficult to sort the important from the relatively unimportant. It is to be hoped that, whether through the Central Council or otherwise, all those interests without whom the new service cannot work will be regularly consulted and thus have reasonable opportunity to take part in the shaping of policy.

The administration of the health service is so vast that, if there were no other problem than that of administration alone, the evolution of the national hospital service must be gradual. Official appreciation of this fact is already evident from certain carry-over administrative arrangements being made—and which may very well be extended over a much wider field—to bridge the gap that certainly will occur between the passing of the old order on 5th July next and the accomplishment of the new at a later date.

It is the welfare and comfort, physical and mental, of the patient that must be the primary consideration throughout the organisation of the service. And these will depend, as they always have depended in the past, on the administration —in the widest sense—of the hospital service of the future.

FINANCIAL REVIEW OF THE VOLUNTARY HOSPITALS FOR THE YEARS 1943 AND 1944

The statistical analyses and records follow the usual form except that for reasons of economy the former Tables 10 and 12 have been amalgamated in Table 8, and the former Tables 11 and 13 have been amalgamated in Table 9.

The figures of the voluntary hospitals' income and expenditure in respect of the years 1943 and 1944 continue to reflect upward tendencies which were the subject of detailed comment in the previous edition, which dealt with the figures for 1942. For the purposes of this review it is therefore convenient to compare the figures of 1944 with 1942.

Income received by the hospitals for general maintenance at £25,642,668 shows an increase of over four million pounds on the figure of £21,185,082 in 1942. It is particularly interesting to record that this increase in total income is in considerable measure due to income from voluntary sources which total £4,676,448 or £844,000 more than in 1942. Legacies at £2,769,258 shows an increase of £565,412.

Expenditure on maintenance, which in 1942 amounted to £18,512,628, has risen in 1944 to £22,943,048. Of this increase of approximately $4\frac{1}{2}$ million pounds no less than $3\frac{1}{2}$ million is accounted for by increases in salaries and wages. If it be borne in mind that the various Joint Hospital Negotiating Committees had hardly begun their work in 1944, the extent to which the costs of hospital maintenance must since have increased under the heading of "Salaries and Wages" may be realised, although the exact data is of course not yet available for publication.

The total surplus of income over expenditure for all the hospitals in Great Britain and Northern Ireland in 1944 exceeded $2\frac{1}{2}$ million pounds.

There was a further increase in the number of patients treated in the voluntary hospitals, the totals being 1,428,647 new in-patients and 6,521,185 out-patients.

DIRECTORY OF REHABILITATION SERVICES IN HOSPITALS

A new feature in this edition is a Directory of Rehabilitation Services available in hospitals, which has been arranged to show the facilities available at the individual hospitals within each Regional Hospital area. This Directory will be found on pages 185–230.

EXPLANATORY NOTES

Object of Survey.

THE object of this Survey is the presentation in as full detail as possible of the position of the Hospitals in Great Britain and Ireland with reference to :—

(a) The facilities available for treatment and the extent to which they are utilised,

(b) The annual cost involved and the several sources from which the funds are derived.

Arrangement of Tables.

In the main tables the Voluntary Hospitals are grouped under the headings :—

Group A. Hospitals having 100 or more beds.
Group B. Hospitals having 30 to 99 beds.
Group C. Hospitals having less than 30 beds.

In addition, Tables of the details of the work and finances of the following special groups are given :—

General Hospitals associated with Medical Schools.
" " without Medical Schools containing 200 or more available beds.
" " " " " " 150 to 199 " "
" " " " " " 125 to 149 " "
" " " " " " 100 to 124 " "
" " " " " " 30 to 99 " "
" " " " " " Less than 30 " "

Children's Hospitals ; Ear, Nose and Throat Hospitals ; Eye Hospitals ; Women's Hospitals ; Maternity Hospitals, etc. ; etc.

Omission from the tables of certain Hospitals.

As announced in the 1939 edition of the Year-Book (page xlv), the figures of hospitals which, after full notice, have failed to comply with certain minimum requirements in uniform accounting, do not appear in these Tables. These requirements are :—

(a) The rendering of an Annual Report by a prescribed date.

(b) The adoption of the Calendar Year for the Annual Accounts.

(c) The presentation of the accounts on the lines laid down in the Revised Uniform System of Hospital Accounts, or (temporarily) in a form admitting of adjustment to comply with it.

Adjustments to figures.

An attempt has been made to present the figures of all hospitals upon the basis of the Revised Uniform System of Hospital Accounts. Slight divergences from the figures published in the Annual Reports of a few hospitals will consequently be found.

The figures in the Tables giving particulars of groups of hospitals include the returns made by a few hospitals covering a period longer than 12 months. This is generally due to some such cause as the changing of the date of the termination of the official year.

Definition of London area.

For the purposes of the Statistical Tables and the Directory of Voluntary Hospitals, London is regarded as the area covered by King Edward's Hospital Fund for London, viz., the same as the Metropolitan and City of London Police Districts. This area includes portions of the counties of Essex, Hertfordshire, Kent, Middlesex and Surrey in addition to the whole of the County of London. Similarly, all hospitals under the control of the London County Council are grouped together, whether they are situated in the County of London or not.

"Available" beds of London hospitals.

The figures of "available" beds of the London hospitals are the average daily bed complement during the year after deducting beds temporarily closed for Rebuilding, Extensions, Repairs, or other causes.

Thanks.

The Editor desires to express thanks to King Edward's Hospital Fund for London, to the Chairmen and Officers of the Voluntary Hospitals and to the Public Authorities who have kindly supplied information.

LONDON COUNTY COUNCIL.

Address : County Hall, Westminster Bridge, S.E. 1. Tel. Waterloo 5000.
Medical Officer of Health : Sir Allen Daley, M.D., F.R.C.P.

NOTES.
Ambulances.—The Council controls its own Ambulance service; for particulars see page 165.
Pathological Services.—A pathological service is available to all hospitals through a number of group laboratories, which are staffed by pathologists, assistant pathologists, and technicians. Each group laboratory is responsible for the pathological work of hospitals in its district. The majority of the general hospitals included in this scheme are also each provided with a hospital laboratory staffed by a technician, where routine pathological work is done.

HOME AMBULANCE SERVICE

Telephone : Sloane 9828 & 7136.

Headquarters : The Joint Committee of the Order of St. John and the British Red Cross Society
12, Grosvenor Crescent, London, S.W. 1.

THE Home Ambulance Service of the Order of St. John and the British Red Cross Society was set up in 1919 with the intention of providing better means of transport for the sick and injured throughout the country.

The end of the War afforded an opportunity for meeting a want that had become seriously urgent.

At the time the Armistice was signed, a large number of the ambulances of the Order and Society was still effective. Many had been shattered by enemy gun-fire. There was, however, a considerable number that could be made available for a further period of service.

Happily it was at this moment that the two organisations decided that the need for united efforts had not ceased with the War. It was arranged that for certain purposes they should continue to work together in promoting the health of the community, and one of the first steps they undertook in that direction was the organisation of a National Ambulance Service for England, Ireland and Wales.

The Committee has every reason to believe that the Home Ambulance Service has become an important link in the chain of organisations for the promotion of the health of the community, and that the co-operation of the Order of St. John and the British Red Cross Society in its establishment has been justified by the result.

HOSPITAL SERVICE AND PRIVATE HIRE.

Arrangements may be made by telephone or letter for the conveyance of patients from London to any part of the country.

A male attendant always accompanies the driver of the ambulance.

A charge of 10*s*. is made for the conveyance of a patient from any address within the administrative County of London to any Hospital in the same area.

By arrangement with Hospital Almoners a service is maintained for the transfer of patients from Hospitals to Convalescent Homes.

A female attendant accompanies all convalescent cases and if sufficient notice is given a similar arrangement may be made for the Private Hire Service.

LONDON COUNTY COUNCIL AMBULANCE SERVICE.

HEADQUARTERS: THE COUNTY HALL, S.E. 1. Telephone No.: Waterloo 3311.

I. Ambulances Supplied without Payment.

THE Council provides, within the Administrative County of London, ambulances, free of cost, for the conveyance to :—

A. Hospitals and/or private residences of :—

Persons meeting with accidents or suffering from sudden illnesses in the streets, public places, places of employment, etc.

B. Hospitals :—

(i) Persons meeting with accidents in their homes;

(ii) Persons suffering from illnesses in their homes if a medical practitioner certifies that the case is one of life or death, and that arrangements have been made for the reception of the patient in a hospital;

(iii) Parturient women, if the case is one of urgency, whether from the home, place of business, or elsewhere, on the application of a qualified medical practitioner or certified midwife, provided that either a doctor or midwife accompanies the case; and

(iv) Non-urgent cases of parturition.

In such cases admission to a maternity bed must have previously been arranged and a card (issued by the Council to hospitals and municipal maternity homes) for such admission obtained. This card must be handed to the ambulance attendant at the time of removal.

In these cases a nurse or a female friend must accompany the patient. The patient may also be accompanied by her husband.

(Note.—The Corporation of the City of London maintains its own ambulance service for dealing with cases of accident and illness occurring in the streets within the City area.)

How to obtain an ambulance for :—

Cases coming under classes A and B (i).

No telephone number is required; dial "999" and ask the operator for "AMBULANCE."

Cases coming under classes B (ii), (iii) and (iv).

Ask the telephone operator (or dial) for one of the headquarters telephone numbers, namely: WATerloo 6000, NEW Cross 2645, CENtral 6301, or REGent 4000.

When communication has been effected, particulars should be clearly given in this order: Place of accident or illness, name of the caller.

C. The Council's hospitals for infectious cases.

D. The Council's hospitals and institutions for non-infectious cases.

In cases coming under class D no charge is made at the time of removal, but there is a liability to assessment of a charge based on the patient's ability to pay.

II. Ambulances Supplied on Payment.

E. Ambulances and ambulance omnibuses are also provided by the Council, when not required for the purposes stated above, on payment of charges, as laid down from time to time by the Council, for the conveyance of infectious and non-infectious cases between private houses, hospitals (other than to the Council's hospitals, etc., under the provisions of Section I) nursing homes and for examinations, consultations and treatment by specialists or at special establishments.

The conveyance of private persons between addresses both of which are outside the administrative county of London cannot be undertaken, unless in circumstances of exceptional urgency.

Arrangements for the reception of an infectious case must be made by or on behalf of the patient before application for an ambulance is sent to the Council.

How to obtain an ambulance for :—

Cases coming under classes C, D and E :—

SCIENTIFIC HEARING TESTING

AMPLIVOX AUDIOMETER

A license arrangement with U.S.A. manufacturers who have made 80% of the Audiometers in use in the world today will enable us to offer shortly an Audiometer embodying the latest ideas in design of the Medical Professions in England and in the U.S.A. This British-made Audiometer will incorporate the following important features :—

- FREQUENCY RANGE. 125–12,000 c.p.s. Eleven threshold calibrated points; more than any other audiometer.
- UNIFORM ZERO REFERENCE LEVEL. The same level on the scale is read for all frequencies.
- SIMPLIFIED HEARING LOSS DIAL. The same set of figures is used to measure hearing loss for both bone and air conduction, eliminating possible mistakes from a double scale.
- DOUBLE AIR RECEIVERS. Reduce effective test-room noise-level by 20 decibels, and permit test tones to be switched instantly from ear to ear.
- ACTUAL SPEECH HEARING LOSS TESTS. A speech test circuit is incorporated including a dynamic microphone and a meter to permit control of the level of speech so that actual speech hearing loss measurements can be made.
- SPECIAL MALINGERING CONTROL. Introduces a measured difference in intensity of the sound reaching each ear, at any frequency, thus also giving a measure of recruitment.
- CALIBRATED MASKING CONTROL. For the first time the masking signal effectively masks all test frequencies.
- CONNECTIONS FOR GROUP TEST DEVICE AND ACCESSORY TURNTABLE.

The AMPLIVOX Audiometer is not only the most accurate and up-to-date instrument available today, it is by far the most versatile. You can give each patient more tests, gather more complete data, and make more certain diagnosis—all in a shorter space of time!

Production commences early in 1948. Please ask now for a demonstration to be arranged when models are available.

DIRECTORY OF REHABILITATION SERVICES IN HOSPITALS IN GREAT BRITAIN

Foreword

By J. H. BALME, O.B.E., M.D., F.R.C.S., D.P.H.

Medical Officer in Charge of Rehabilitation, Ministry of Health; Director of Welfare Services, British Red Cross Society.

THE development of facilities for rehabilitation, as an integral part of hospital practice, marks a notable advance in social medicine. It is a recognition of the important fact that the treatment of any disabling illness or injury is something which cannot be expressed in terms of anatomy or physiology or pathology alone, but must have regard to the whole person affected by the disability. A smashed spine or a tuberculous lung presents problems which cannot be adequately met by the unaided resources of the surgeon or physician, however expert, for such a disability has serious psychological and economic effects, in addition to the loss of physical function caused by the disorder, and no treatment is really complete unless it also takes these other factors into account and offers an effective solution. In other words, medical and surgical treatment, as ordinarily understood, are not sufficient when we are dealing with disease or injury likely to lead to permanent disability. What the patient is needing is not only first-class treatment of the particular disorder from which he is suffering; he needs, in addition, complete physical reablement, psychological readjustment, and economic reinstatement.

Nor is this confined to the graver forms of injury or illness. The experience of the past years has proved without question that a large amount of absenteeism from essential work and of disability from relatively minor disorders is caused by the absence of suitable methods of rehabilitation, and that where these are available—in casualty department and out-patient centre, even more importantly than in the wards—the cure is far more rapid and complete, and the proportion of residual disability reduced to a minimum.

This aspect of rehabilitation as a method of " completing the cure ", which must find its centre in the hospital, has been somewhat obscured during the past few years, owing to the circumstances in which new facilities have become available for the reconditioning and employment of the disabled, resulting from the adoption of the Tomlinson Report and the passage of the Disabled Persons (Employment) Act of 1944. Those valuable measures of social legislation naturally concentrated attention on what could be done for the disabled man, by means of suitable vocational guidance, special training, and careful resettlement in appropriate industry. The steps which have been taken by the Ministry of Labour and National Service, in implementation of the Act, have been of the greatest possible service in providing new hope and new opportunity for the man or woman who is suffering from some form of disability. But these activities, invaluable as they are, mostly deal with the end-product of the disabling illness or injury. They are concerned with the problem of finding work for the person who is already disabled, and preparing him for his new occupation. They do not touch the preventive aspect of the problem at all, but from a long term point of view it is the preventive aspect which is most important. Just as in general medicine and public health it is infinitely more important to devise means of preventing disease and immunising the population against infective disorders than to provide hospital beds and treatment, so also in the case of potential disability. Early recognition and treatment of the disabling disorder, combined with full and continuous rehabilitation from the very onset of the trouble until the patient is re-fitted for the most suitable work he can undertake, constitute the only satisfactory method of preventing permanent disablement, or of reducing it to a minimum.

It is here that hospital facilities are so absolutely essential. The physical reconditioning of the patient demands the expert help of the physiotherapist, the remedial gymnast and the occupational therapist, all working as a team under the direction and inspiration of the rehabilitation medical officer. The psychological readjustment of the patient requires the sympathetic help of the almoner or social worker (and the skilled advice of the psychiatrist, in some cases), assisted by those invaluable aids to mental stimulus and enjoyment which the provision of good books, attractive entertainments and recreation, and educational courses for the long-stay patient, can offer. The economic problems of the patient, which act so often as a deterrent to quick recovery, again come within the sphere of the almoner, who is aided by her association with the Disablement Resettlement Officers of the neighbouring employment exchanges, and her contacts with post-hospital rehabilitation centres. It is only by the combined efforts of all these members of the rehabilitation team that the patient can be given the fullest opportunity for recovery and reinstatement.

Introduction

By H. E. GRIFFITHS, C.B.E., M.S., F.R.C.S.
Chairman, Executive Committee, British Council for Rehabilitation.

TWENTY years ago the medical and surgical care of patients was considered the be-all and end-all of treatment. Rehabilitation as now understood played little part in the general therapeutic scheme; indeed, before the outbreak of the recent war probably not more than one small hospital in this country had been designed and built with a complete rehabilitation unit. Since 1939 the Emergency Medical Service, the British Hospitals Association and the Services Medical Departments have been fully alive to the need for providing comprehensive rehabilitation both for servicemen and civilians alike.

Precept and propaganda have gone far to make the medical and lay public rehabilitation-conscious and the demand for this complete treatment of the sick and injured is steadily increasing. Hospital Managements, Industry and Government Departments have striven to meet this need, hampered as they are at this time by lack of funds, buildings and personnel. The growth of rehabilitation departments throughout the country has, therefore, been sporadic. Although there are relatively few complete centres, most hospitals have succeeded in establishing skeleton centres whose bones are gradually putting on flesh.

The purpose of this Directory is to place the present position clearly before the medical and hospital public.

Since the scope of medical treatment embraces the care of the patient from the onset of his malady until he returns to work and is fully recovered, the doctor must plan ahead, making use of his knowledge of hospital, home and industrial facilities for rehabilitation.

For example, if the case to be treated is one of a simple Colles' fracture, the doctor whose patient resides in a country village may be satisfied that one brief visit to hospital for a check X-Ray after reduction of the fracture may be all that is necessary in the way of ancillary treatment to secure a speedy recovery, because he knows that his patient will exercise his injured arm in pursuit of his normal recreational activities.

A similar case residing in a town, possibly even in a slum, may present different problems. The very exceptional man may have a hobby, such as fretwork, which will provide the necessary stimulus to activity. A small proportion of patients may be employed by firms who have industrial medical officers, welfare workers or labour managers with whom the practitioner can establish contact with a view to keeping the patient in employment, if not at his old work, then at such alternative work as will be calculated to help his recovery. But in the great majority of city dwellers the doctor must rely upon hospital facilities for much of the primary and the ancillary treatment of his patient. For light work there must be substituted physiotherapy, exercises and occupational therapy. The psychological side of rehabilitation is as important as the physical. The complete rehabilitation department, therefore, includes a social welfare and liaison staff to advise and help patients with their mental worries and to facilitate their return to employment.

Sometimes rehabilitation facilities for a particular case will be obtained only at some considerable distance from the patient's home : then attendance at the centre may be practicable only if there is a canteen for the use of out-patients.

For the long-term hospital case educational facilities, particularly the use of a well-stocked and managed library, such as is provided so frequently by the British Red Cross Society, are invaluable.

Whatever the problem of rehabilitation that confronts the medical attendant, all the information that he requires can be obtained through this Directory. It gives a complete table of the scope for treatment, the equipment and the personnel of the hospital and, in addition, the name of the medical officer in charge of rehabilitation. Certain rehabilitation centres have been established independently of hospitals, some by Ministries, some by private bodies and some by different trade organisations. Where rehabilitation includes the medical care of the patient full particulars of the centre are appended.

NOTES TO THE DIRECTORY

This Directory has been compiled by means of questionnaires sent in January 1947 to all hospitals—Voluntary, Municipal and Governmental—having 50 beds or more, but excluding Mental Hospitals which have, on this occasion, been omitted owing to their special needs.

The Directory was intended to include only those hospitals which provide facilities additional to physiotherapy and those below 50 beds were therefore excluded from the enquiry.

Our thanks are especially due to Dr. J. H. Balme, O.B.E., M.D., F.R.C.S., D.P.H., and to Mr. H. E. Griffiths, C.B.E., M.S., F.R.C.S., for their help and advice throughout the preparation of the Directory. We are also indebted to the British Council for Rehabilitation for the information given in the Appendix to the Directory, and to the Ministry of Health, the Department of Health for Scotland and the Ministry of Pensions for much assistance. Lastly we would thank all those hospitals which answered the questionnaires, in particular those which were kind enough to give their opinions on the form which it should take, and also the Central Council for the Care of Cripples for its valuable help.

DISTRICT NURSING.

Patients who require skilled nursing in their own homes and who are unable to provide themselves with private care can be attended by district nurses. The country is almost completely covered by District Nursing Associations, 2,229 of which in Great Britain and Ireland are in affiliation with the Queen's Institute of District Nursing and therefore employ fully trained nurses.

The nurses carry out any treatment ordered by doctors whether the patient is under the care of a private, panel or District Medical Officer, or is a patient receiving treatment at a hospital. Application can be made direct to the nurse, whose address can be obtained from the Queen's Institute. The Institute can also generally supply the addresses of unaffiliated nursing associations.

Necessitous cases are nursed free of charge but the Public Assistance Authorities, recognising the value of the service, make grants to nursing associations for their nurses' visits and these, with voluntary subscriptions and donations, assist to maintain the funds required to provide free or partly free visits.

Of recent years, as the financial position of the average patient has improved, a larger proportion of income has been derived from the people themselves and the introduction of Contributory or "Provident" schemes has become very general. These originated in rural areas where a subscription of from 1*d*. to 2*d*. weekly has been collected from house to house. This is now likely to be raised to a minimum of 1½*d*. They are now organised in urban areas on subscription of 1*d*. and 1½*d*. weekly according to the size of the population and type of area, whether residential or industrial. For families with incomes above National Health Insurance limit the subscription recommended is from 10*s*. a year. Subscriptions are collected by pay roll deductions, collections in places of employment and in various groups in the towns, often connected with women's, political and other meetings. In some places the hospital and nursing association have agreed to a combined contribution for their respective benefits, but in no case has the institution of a separate scheme for nursing proved to be competitive with that of the hospital, the one service being complementary to the other. Future developments of these schemes are likely to be (a) standardization of the rate of contribution, (b) development of reciprocal arrangements between associations, (c) regional organizations. Provident schemes have undoubtedly been the means of bringing skilled nursing attention to many patients who might otherwise have lacked this service and have brought much additional support to District Nursing Associations.

Secretary: Miss Taylor

There are normally about 4,500 Patients delivered annually in hospital and in their homes. In addition to the routine work of the Hospital, with its Ante-Natal, Post-Natal, Paediatric, Radiological, Laboratory Research, and Human Milk Departments, opportunities are afforded of seeing obstetrical complications and operative midwifery, almost all the total admissions being on medical grounds or primiparous; these, together with emergency admissions, provide a large amount of abnormal midwifery. Clinical Demonstrations are given daily by the Staff.

What Constitutes an Ideal Charitable Bequest?

1. IT MUST BE TO A SOCIETY WHOSE PURPOSE IS UNCHANGING.
   The one purpose of the Bible Society is to circulate Scriptures without note or comment.
2. IT MUST BE TO A SOCIETY WHOSE RECORD IS UNIMPEACHABLE.
   The Bible Society has sent out about 550,000,000 copies of the Scriptures since its foundation in 1804.
3. IT MUST BE TO A SOCIETY WHOSE SCOPE IS SUFFICIENTLY FAR REACHING.
   The Bible Society broadcasts the Scriptures in 769 languages to every part of the world.
4. IT MUST BE TO A SOCIETY WHOSE ACTIVITIES CAN NEVER BECOME UNNECESSARY.
   As long as humanity endures it will need the Scriptures, and the Bible Society is pledged to continue its labours for all time.

FOR NERVOUS AND MENTAL DISORDERS

Monks Orchard, Eden Park, Beckenham, Kent.

Telephone: SPRINGPARK 1180–1181

President: HER MAJESTY QUEEN MARY.

Phy.-Sup.: J. G. HAMILTON, M.D., D.P.M.

This Registered Hospital is situated at Monks Orchard in some 250 acres of park, pleasure and farm grounds.

Applications can be considered on behalf of patients of the educated classes in a presumably curable condition. With a view to early treatment, voluntary or uncertified patients are admitted. Patients who can contribute 5 guineas weekly towards the cost of treatment and maintenance may be received as vacancies arise. The Committee will also consider applications for admission at lower rates and in certain cases will be prepared to admit patients free of charge. The comfort of sensitive patients is greatly enhanced by the fact that the majority are given single bedrooms.

The Medical Staff have access to a panel of Consultants in cases which present unusual symptons requiring specialised investigation and treatment.

HOSPITAL LAW NOTES

By SIR WILLIAM BAYNES, M.A., LL.M.

of the Inner Temple, Barrister-at-Law,
Hon. Legal Adviser to The British Hospitals Association

The book deals with practically every legal or semi-legal point on which Secretaries of Hospitals have asked for information during several years past, and there is reason to hope that it may contain the answers to most of the legal problems that Secretaries ordinarily meet with in practice. The subjects are arranged alphabetically and fully indexed to facilitate reference.

"This book should be one of the working tools of any Hospital administrator, whether member of a committee or executive officer."—The Times.

"They cover almost every conceivable legal or semi-legal difficulty which a hospital secretary is likely to encounter. . . . The notes on road accident patients, on the recovery of income-tax under subscribers' seven-year covenants, and on liability for negligence as good instances of the clear and concise help which Mr. Baynes offers to his readers. The secretaries of hospitals and similar institutions who buy this little book will get good value."—The Lancet.

"It is difficult not to use extravagant superlatives in expressing one's admiration of this book. . . . No hospital secretary should be without it, and it should be worth almost its weight in Treasury Notes to proprietors of private hospitals and nursing homes, though of course it does not deal with the legal problems which are peculiar to their status."
British Medical Journal.

"This is a book which has long been needed. We desire to congratulate Mr. Baynes on the excellence of these notes which are characterized by accuracy throughout. They show a practical acquaintance with the law on the subjects dealt with, and no doubt this book will soon be in great demand. It certainly ought to have a long and useful career before it. Meantime it has our warmest recommendation."—The Medical Times.

"Beneath its unassuming title this book hides a mine of information for the hospital officer. One is struck by the simplicity of its language and by the avoidance of legal phraseology whenever possible. . . . The book should also be of value to any member of the legal profession whose practice brings him into contact with hospitals."—The Hospital.

"Of very great practical value to everyone connected with hospitals or with nursing and convalescent homes or similar institutions. It is a book which can be thoroughly recommended to anyone who is interested in the legal side of hospital work and management. Its accuracy can be vouched for."

NEW YORK AT MIDNIGHT?

No. It's a stack of Hedley bar soap — just out of the drying tunnels. The soap is placed on a conveyor belt and passed slowly through these tunnels where it is subjected to a steady stream of warm air. By the time it reaches the end the soap is hardened on the surface and properly conditioned. The bars of soap will now undergo the moisture test. This ensures that the processing has been correct for the type of soap. All Hedley soaps must pass this test because it guarantees their soap content and high standard of quality.
